CI-5 Compact Cash Automation System

ADAPTING TO THE NEW NORMAL

More and more, self-payment stations are becoming a frequent fixture in many of our lives. Whether in supermarkets, airports, convenience stations or food outlets; self-payment stations are becoming the preferred way for customers to pay for services and purchases in-store.

As customers return to stores and we adjust to new processes and store layouts, self-payment allows for cash to be touchless for added peace of mind. Any concerns that customers may have about coming into close contact with staff are eliminated and they can confidently pay in cash.

IMPLEMENTING SELF-PAYMENT GIVES YOU TIME TO FOCUS ON YOUR BUSINESS AND IMPROVE CUSTOMER EXPERIENCE

For your customers, payment for goods and services is often the last experience they have with your brand. Self-payment technology can help them pay and leave the store quickly, without having to wait in line.

For your staff, self-payment stations can help improve efficiency for your staff and allow them to focus on customer engagement, removing non-productive and stressful activities from their shift. Since there is no need to handle cash manually, errors, discrepancies and shrinkage can be eliminated entirely.
