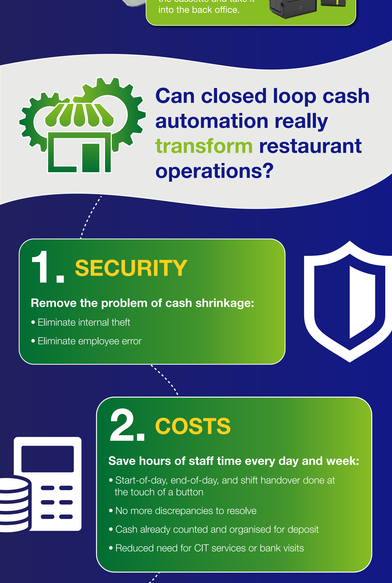
DRIVING EFFICIENCY IN RESTAURANTS: The Case For Closed Loop Cash Automation

Restaurants need efficiency more than ever

The current macro-economic situation continues to apply pressure on the restaurant industry.

Operations must be optimised, but one area often gets overlooked – their cash processes.

What is closed loop cash automation, and how does it work?



Can closed loop cash automation really transform restaurant operations?

1. SECURITY

Remove the problem of cash shrinkage:

- Eliminate internal theft
- Eliminate employee error

2. COSTS

Save hours of staff time every day and week:

- Start-of-day, end-of-day, and shift handover done at the touch of a button
- No more discrepancies to resolve
- Cash already counted and organised for deposit
- Reduced need for CIT services or bank visits

3. CUSTOMER EXPERIENCE

Reallocate your staff to higher value tasks:

- Focus on your customers and their needs
- Better maintain the restaurant environment
- Cut service time
- Eliminate payment and change errors

4. STAFF RETENTION

Remove one of the most stressful parts of your employees' day:

- No more reconciling cash drawers
- No resolving cash discrepancies
- No more counting cash for deposits
- No more suspicion of theft

5. HYGIENE

Improve and simplify hygiene practice:

- Avoid cross contamination between cash and food
- Simplify hygiene for staff
